

Scam Recruiting Flyer Looks For Recruits With Clean Organs, Sparking Fears Of Organ Trafficking In Cambodia

Recently, a Cambodian "high-paying recruitment" advertisement has been generating a great deal of concern in Malaysia.

The advertisement requires applicants to have "clean organs", sparking speculation about organ trafficking.

This is the advertisement where you can see the reference below.

People online point out this is similar terminology that is used by organ trafficking gangs and so it has many concerned.

Similar scam recruiting ads have appeared frequently in Indonesia and other places where victims are deceived into going overseas to engage in fraud. Once there they face the risk of having their organs removed if their performance does not meet standards.

Translation Of The Scam Ad

WORK PERMIT - URGENT HIRING

Job Details

- Work Opportunity in Cambodia - No Experience Required!
- Location: Cambodia
- Salary: $800 - $1000
- Job Type: Full Time

Eligibility Requirements

Who Can Register:

- No work experience required (Training will be provided)
- Can communicate (If you can't speak English, that's fine)
- Hard working & can provide assistance
- Internal organs that are not too dirty (because work can be exhausting)
- No age restrictions
- People who aren't too demanding (The important thing is having work)
- Don't need a CV, just come and bring your ID

Registration Process

How to Register: [Contact information section]